opportunity, social justice, and equity for all young children in the words of my friend and colleague Maurice Sykes, "We must shift the dialog to ensure that educators bring playfulness and joy as they respond to children's inquisitiveness."

Hold my spot for Free Access to the Essence of Play Summit October 19th-22nd!

The Essence of Play Summit is a journey that will change your perspective on the importance of play. Through this Summit, you will deepen your understanding of play as creativity, play as inquiry, play as equity, and play as a community. This Summit is an opportunity to learn from some of the leading experts in the field of play and to explore new thought-provoking ideas about how we can use play to improve our lives. We hope that through this journey, you will come to see play as an essential part of a healthy and happy life for both children and adults!

Each day we will:

- engage with the researchers on play
- have discussions with authors and educators in the trenches
- examine a video of play in action from various educational settings around the world
- explore along and engage with actual demonstrations that you can use in your early childhood ecosystem
